9 to 5 group down, not out

UP International

BOSTON — The group that inspired a national movement of women office workers and Dolly Parton's anthem, 9 to 5, has closed down its debt-ridden office.

"We're down but not out," said director Lisa Grant. "Failure is impossible," she said, quoting Susan B. Anthony, the leader of the women's suffrage movement at the turn of the century.

The chapter, where the seeds of the national organization were sown in 1973, is $15,000 in debt and will now conduct its business through a post office box and office at Grant's home.

With 12,000 members nationwide, Deborah Meyer, spokesman at the group's national headquarters in Cleveland, Ohio, said most of the chapters rely on volunteers and are reducing the few paid staffers.

"That doesn't mean we're dead," Meyer said, "9 to 5 will continue to exist, win pay raises and improve conditions."

A CHANCE TO HELP

The following volunteer opportunities are available this week:

SWIM-AIDES, 19 and older, to assist mentally handicapped adults in a once a week daytime pool and whirlpool program. Volunteer must know how to swim.

DAYCARE ASSISTANTS, 20 and older, female, to take pre-schoolers to a swim experience on Mondays.

FEMALE FITNESS INSTRUCTOR, 20 and older, is needed on Mondays and/or Wednesdays between 11:30 and noon for a group of pregnant women in the Mar-pole/Oakridge area.

PUBLICITY ASSISTANT to assist the lectures co-ordinator with publicity for the environmental group. Need someone with graphic skills, communication experience, is a self-starter and enjoys working with volunteers.
